ESG Operations, Inc. has been recognized as a Top 200 Environmental Firm in the nation by Engineering News-Record (ENR). This marks the seventh consecutive year ESG has been included in ENR's prestigious Top 200 list. Employee owned, ESG provides water, wastewater and public works services to municipalities and private sector entities of all sizes. With an annual revenue in 2016 of over $61 million, ESG is one of the nation's fastest growing utility operations and public works management companies and the largest in the Southeast. ESG is ranked #120 on the list of 2017 Top Environmental Firms, up from #126 last year.

ENR is a renowned and respected trade publication for the architecture, engineering and construction industry worldwide. ENR's annual Top 200 Environmental Firms list ranks the 200 largest publicly and privately held firms based on the previous year's percentage of gross revenue for environmental services.

"We are proud to have earned recognition again this year as one of ENR's Top 200 most successful environmental firms," commented ESG principals and co-founders, Clay Sykes and Dan Groselle. "Over the past 15 years, we have experienced remarkable growth even in the midst of some challenging economic times. The commitment of ESG's talented associates to deliver outstanding service, coupled with our ability to provide our clients with innovative and custom-crafted solutions for their most challenging infrastructure projects, has enabled ESG to attain this remarkable growth and achieve recognition as a Top 200 firm. The future for public-private partnerships has never been brighter, as public and private sector entities are realizing the significant long-term benefits and value that a full-service, single source partner can provide. ESG is poised to continue leading the way in providing award-winning utility operations and public works services."
